

Autumn Hall and CreativeWilmington partner for Pedestrian Art

Developers with Autumn Hall, Inc. and executives with Creative Wilmington's Pedestrian Art Program have announced that Wilmington's newest mixed-use community also will serve as the city's newest public art venue. The three-year contract, scheduled to begin in 2009, calls for three sculptures to be exhibited simultaneously, with new sculptures installed annually. Nine selected works will represent artists from Wilmington and will be displayed in Shannon Garden, one of Autumn Hall's 11 gardens – an English-style park with a formal plan featuring ornate hedges, a fountain and reflecting pools. Artists can submit their work for consideration through CreativeWilmington at www.creativewilmington.com. For more info on Autumn Hall, visit www.autumnhall.com.
